

George, The Gingerbread Man

Once upon a time, there was a little gingerbread man named George. He loved to run and play outside. He loved to chant to his friends:

Run! Run, as fast as you can!
What color am I?
I'm the gingerbread man!

Of course, all of George's friends were very smart. They all knew that a gingerbread man was brown !

But George did not give up. He was sure he could still fool his smart friends. He decided to change himself to a different color. So he covered himself with cherry icing. He ran outside to play and cried his chant to his friends:

Run! Run, as fast as you can!
What color am I?
I'm the gingerbread man!

Of course, all of George's friends were very smart. They all knew that cherry icing was --- red!

One day George decided to see if he could fool his friends. He decided to fool his smart friends. He decided to change himself to a different color. So he covered himself with blueberry icing. He ran outside to play and cried his chant to his friends:

Run! Run, as fast as you can!
What color am I?
I'm the gingerbread man!

Of course, all of George's friends were very smart. They all knew that blueberry icing was --- blue!

But George did not give up. He was sure he could still fool his smart friends. He decided to change himself to a different color. So he covered himself with lime icing. He ran outside to play and cried his chant to his friends:

Run! Run, as fast as you can!
What color am I?
I'm the gingerbread man!

Of course, all of George's friends were very smart. They all knew that lime icing was ---green !

But George did not give up. He was sure he could still fool his smart friends. He decided to change himself to a different color. So he covered himself with lemon icing. He ran outside to play and cried his chant to his friends:

Run! Run, as fast as you can!
What color am I?
I'm the gingerbread man!

Of course, all of George's friends were very smart. They all knew that lemon icing was --- yellow!

But George did not give up. He was sure he could still fool his smart friends. He decided to change himself to a different color. So he covered himself with pumpkin icing. He ran outside to play and cried his chant to his friends:

Run! Run, as fast as you can!
What color am I?
I'm the gingerbread man!

Of course, all of George's friends were very smart. They all knew that pumpkin icing was --- orange !

But George did not give up. He was sure he could still fool his smart friends. He decided to change himself to a different color. So he covered himself with grape icing. He ran outside to play and cried his chant to his friends:

Run! Run, as fast as you can!
What color am I?
I'm the gingerbread man!

Of course, all of George's friends were very smart. They all knew that grape icing was --- purple !

But George did not give up. He was sure he could still fool his smart friends. He decided to change himself to a different color. So he covered himself with licorice icing. He ran outside to play and cried his chant to his friends:

Run! Run, as fast as you can!
What color am I?
I'm the gingerbread man!

Of course, all of George's friends were very smart. They all knew that licorice icing was --- black !

But George did not give up. He was sure he could still fool his smart friends. He decided to change himself to a different color. So he covered himself with vanilla icing. He ran outside to play and cried his chant to his friends:

Run! Run, as fast as you can!
What color am I?
I'm the gingerbread man!

Of course, all of George's friends were very smart. They all knew that vanilla icing was ---white

But George did not give up. He was sure he could still fool his smart friends. He decided to change himself to a different color. So he covered himself with strawberry icing. He ran outside to play and cried his chant to his friends:

Run! Run, as fast as you can!
What color am I?
I'm the gingerbread man!

Of course, all of George's friends were very smart. They all knew that strawberry icing was --- pink!

George just could not fool his smart friends! But he was very happy anyway. All of his friends knew the colors, just as you do.
